STUDIO CITY, CA – January 17, 2022 – Alison Sweeney ("Chronicle Mysteries," "Hannah Swenson Mysteries"), Victor Webster ("Workin' Moms," "A Christmas Cookie Catastrophe"), Lacey Chabert ("Party of Five," "Haul out the Holly") and Autumn Reeser ("Entourage," "The O.C.") return in "The Wedding Veil Journey," a new, original movie premiering January 21, 2023 (8 p.m. ET/PT), on Hallmark Channel, as part of the network's "New Year, New Movies" programming event. Jane Asher (Death at a Funeral, I Give It a Year) also stars. The movie was filmed partly on location in Greece.

In the third movie of the sequel trilogy, Tracy (Sweeney) is now head of the auction house, and Nick's (Webster) restaurant is doing so well that he's looking at expanding. Their success leaves the couple so little time together, they have yet to decide where to take their long overdue honeymoon, but finally settle on Greece. When a travel delay leaves them without a hotel room, they end up staying on a beautiful, secluded island at a fledgling inn run by capable local Tessa (Katerina Geronikolou, Moonstruck) and her well-meaning, if bungling brother Xander (Alexander Nicolaou, "Casualty"). When Nick discovers that Xander is filling in as chef, despite his cooking being unpalatable, he cannot help but to lend a hand in the kitchen. Tracy meanwhile meets Leo (newcomer Ché Grant), a charming boy from a nearby boarding school, whose artistic talents are only rivaled by his knack for getting into trouble. Tracy cannot shake the feeling that Leo needs her help but finds her interventions unwelcomed by the school's headmaster (Andreas Karras, Crooked House). Soon Tracy encounters a mystery when elegant Lady Dalton (Asher) and her grandson Colin (Nicholas Banks, Kingsman: The Secret Service) check in. Inexplicably, the veil – which Tracy had brought along to give to Nick's sister – keeps winding up in Colin's room. With sparks flying between Colin and Tessa, even skeptical Tracy may finally have to admit there's something to the veil's legend. As they spend time on the island, Tracy and Nick may also find that, though their honeymoon isn't exactly what they had pictured, it might just be exactly what they need.

"The Wedding Veil" is from Front Street Pictures Productions. Beth Grossbard, Lisa Demberg, Lacey Chabert and Alison Sweeney are executive producers. Harvey Kahn, Juliet Smith and Phillip Roth are co-executive producers. Allen Lewis and Maria Komninos are supervising producers, and Sepideh Merchant, James Jope and Valerie Biggin are associate producers. Charles Cooper is producer. Ron Oliver directed from a script by Karen Berger, inspired by the book There Goes the Bride by Lori Wilde and based on characters created by Judith Berg & Sandra Berg.
